Likely to Prove Fatal. CHICAGO, June 28. The injuries received by Hon. H. C. Bullis, Republican nominee for Lieut. Governor of lows, by being thrown from his carriage a few days since, are pretty certain to prove fatal. At last accounts he was very low.

A Washington telegram says the latest car, which left Garonae, time, soon after 5 o'clock, and the mixed train, so called, which usually leaves Augusta for Portland at 4:30. This train was delayed until 5 o'clock at Augusta in order to accommodate the delegates to the Democratic State Convention returning to their homes. The train was crowded with passengers, and consisted of an engine, freight car, smoking car, and there passenger cars. According to the rules of the road, this train should have waited at Hallowell; but it did not, where the locomotives met. Persons in a field near by saw the approaching train, and attempted to signa, them, but without success. The shock was terrific, and the engines were wholly demolished. There was a steep embankment at the point where the trains met, and there would have been a terrible loss of life if the cars had been thrown over, but fortunately were not, although the freight car, shad been thrown over, but fortunately were not, although the freight car, were bly defined the cars had been thrown over, but fortunately were not, although the freight car, or the down train was wrecked.
